81% of Boston's newspaper advertising is launched in one space vehicle.

In 1984, The Boston Globe sold more than 30,000 advertising pages; an increase of more than 10% over 1983, more than 20% over 1982.

Advertisers have made The Globe number two in the U.S. in general food advertising, number three in Sunday classified and number four in Sunday general.

They've also given The Globe a 94% share of computer equipment advertising, 90% in alcoholic beverages, and 90% in department store ads. Overall, an 81% share of total advertising.

One reason for our success is the types of people who see ads in The Globe. They place high value on advertising as news and service. They're the people advertisers want to reach.

So when your advertising is on the launching pad, look to The Boston Globe.

Because if you do business in New England, you need to do business in The Boston Globe.

Where Do Upscale Products Meet An Upwardly Mobile Audience?

The Schenectady Gazette delivers the young reader with a high income. In fact, nearly half our readers, some 71,000 strong, have a household income of $25,000+ and an even higher number are between the ages of 25 and 54.
That's buying power, especially when you consider that we serve an area that has one of the lowest costs of living of any major market.
It's the right media to the right market. Just one of the reasons the Schenectady Gazette is distinctly different.
